(60) Provisional application No. 62/058,311, filed on Oct.
1, 2014.

A hooded garment for at least partially covering a head of a wearer includes a jacket and a hood connected to the jacket. The hood has a front portion defining an opening and a back portion. The hood includes a securing structure to couple the hood to the head of the wearer. The securing structure has a suspension connected to the hood to translate forces from movement of the head to the hood to prevent view blockage of the wearer during movement of the head.
